OFFICIAL BOARD PROBING TRAGEDY OF SEVEN SHIPS

Toll Includes 22 Missing, One Identified Dead, 13 Injured.

VESSELS POUND TO PIECES ON ROCKS

Commanders Praise Courage And Discipline Of The Sailors Aboard.

Santa Barbara, Calif. Sept. 11.—An official board of inquiry composed of Rear Admiral W. V. Pratt, commander of the fourth division of the battle fleet, senior member; Capt. George C. Day, commander of the Pacific submarine division and Capt. David C. Sellers of the naval training station at San Diego is today investigating the naval tragedy in which seven United States destroyers crashed on the sharp reefs two miles from Point Arguello, in a dense fog Saturday night

The naval board was appointed by Admirals S. Robison, commander of the battle fleet, now stationed in San Francisco harbor. Admiral E. W. Kittelle, commander of the destroyer division, who was named by Admiral Robinson to appoint a judge advocate to complete the official investigating body.

One identified dead, 22 missing and believed dead, and 13 injured is the toll taken when the fleet destroyers, Young, Chauncey, Delphy, Fuller, Nicholas, S. P. Lee, and Woodbury piled on the treacherous rocks, known as the "Devil's Jaw," 75 miles north of here.

All officers and men of destroyers S. P. Lee, Chauncey, Fuller, Woodbury and Nicholas have been accounted for. Those lost are of the personnel of the Young and Delphy.

Ships Still On Rocks

Another effort will be made early today to release the bodies believed to be imprisoned in the compartments of the Young. Heavy seas yesterday frustrated all efforts of the rescuers to gain a vantage point about the hull. Salvage officials indicated today that the task is extremely difficult and hazardous because of the manner in which the Young is resting.

All seven destroyers are tsill on the rocks pounding to pieces. About 30 miles from the wreck is the steamer Cuba, which grounded Saturday, wedged between rocks on this strip of treacherous coast line and being gradually reduced to wreckage. Her passengers and crew were saved.

The Delphy was cut in two abaft the torpedo deck, while the Young is on her beam ends. Other vessels of the flotilla are promiscuously strewn nearby, just about 200 yards from the shore.

"To the courage and discipline of American sailors must be given credit for the fact that but 23 men lost their lives in the wreck instead of 400," said Captain E. H. Watson, commander of the destroyer flotilla.

"To command such men is a pleasure and to share danger with them is an honor,' is the tribute paid by Captain Watson for the splendid discipline of the men under stress.

GOVERNOR HEARS WATKINS APPEAL

Considers Technicality Of Over-riding Civil Service Laws Of Ohio.

Columbus, Sept. 11.—Consideration is being given today by Gov. Donahey to the question as to whether the Miller law, authorizing the governor to remove officials for failing to enforce dry laws, properly constitutes an exception, technically, to the state civil service laws.

Submitting oral argument before the governor late Monday in support of a motion for a new trial for James Watkins, whom the governor recently removed as chief of police of Youngstown for inadequate enforcement of the dry laws, former Atty.-Gen. T. S. Hogan, Columbus, asserted that the Miller law is a "back-door method of repealing the civil service laws by implication."

Opposing a new trial for Watkins, Asst. Atty.-Gen. E. E. Corn declared that the Miller law should be construed as an exception to the civil service act.

SHERIFF LEWIS TO BAN GAMBLING ON DEVICES AT FAIR

Games Of Skill Will Not Be Molested; Lisbon Suspends Business.

Lisbon, Sept. 11.—Sheriff Lewis and his deputies have notified proprietors of concession at the fair grounds that no gambling will be allowed. Parties who expect to dispose of kewpie dolls, cushions, jewelry and other articles by the old paddle wheel, wheel of fortune and other gambling devices, will be closed up by the sheriff. All those who use games of skill rather than the game of chance can proceed unmolested.

"We are going to see that there is no gambling at this fair," said Sheriff Lewis Tuesday morning. "Those who expect to try to evade this order are due for a painful surprise."

All the offices in the county court house will close at 10 o'clock on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. This custom has prevailed for many years in order to give the clerks and officials time to go to the county fair. Persons having business with the county officials are asked to bear this fact in mind.

In addition to this, business in Lisbon will be largely at a standstill during the afternoons of fair days, the majority of the business houses closing and clerks and propietors will join the throng at the fair.

The fair board has taken out rain insurance for the two big days to cover any loss by unfavorable weather. However the weather man has promised sunny skies for both days.

146 Couple Parts And 655 Unite In County Last Year

State's Ratio Of Marriages And Divorces In 1922 Is Five To One.

The divorce mill in Columbiana county is in a neck and neck race with Dan Cupid, figures compiled by the United States Department of Commerce on marriages and divorces indicate.

For every four and one-half marriages in Columbiana county in 1922 there was one divorce, or two divorces for every nine marriages. Statistics gathered from court records show 655 marriage licenses were issued in this county last year as compared to 146 divorce decrees granted by the courts.

The ratio of marriages and divorces for 1916 shows little variance over the figuers for last year. Six hundred and twelve marriages were contracted while 16 divorces were granted.

According to returns received by the census bureau, says the official statement of the department of commerce, there were in Ohio for the calendar year 1922, 53,206 marriages performed and 10,182 divorces granted. For the calendar year 1916, the first for which these statistics were collected by the bureau, 52,592 marriages and 7,607 divorces were reported.

Man Hurls Himself In Front Of Auto In Suicide Attempt

WILL NOT OPEN IMPROVED ROAD

Commissioners Fear Road Might Be Damaged If Thrown Open Now To Fair Visitors.

Lisbon, Sept. 11.—Despite the fact that Contractor Milarr offered to open the section of the Lisbon-East Liverpool rd. now under process of construction on fair days of the county commissioners would station watchmen to keep heavy truck traffic off the improvement, the commissioners decided to not take the risk on this improvement. The road is in such a condition that it needs some time to settle and dry out from the tar treatment, and they are anxious that it be in proper condition before it is thrown open to traffic.

Contractor Milarr, in his endeavor to rush the job to completion, ran his tar heating plant to beyond its capacity and it broke down, preventing the treatment of the surface of the brick as specified. This is the real reason for the delay in the completion of the road.

WRIGHT OBTAINS PATENT ON KNIFE

Salem Man Invents Utility Device; Will Market Article Soon.

Robert Lloyd Wright of this city has obtained a patent from the U. S. Patent office on an office and utility safety blade knife and will place the new ingenious device on the market soon.

The knife is different than any other now in use, Mr. Wright said. New or old razor blades are used in it. The blades fit in a hollow sheath which has an automatic sharpening device. The blade is placed in a slot and clamped and has a safety handle that disappears when the knife is not in use, eliminating all danger of cuts from an open sharp blade.

The sharpening devise is most unique. It takes but a second to put a new edge on the blade and a mere touch on any thing that a person wants cut from a paper is all that is needed.

The total length of the knife is about four inches. It is finished in shiny metal and looks not unlike a letter opener when it is on a desk.

This patent was issued under No. 1,465,751 and is one of a number of patents that were issued to men in towns near Salem. This is the first patent issued to a Salem man for some time. Mr. Wright spent over two years working on his invention.

Lowers Head And Leaps In Front Of Arbaugh Car On Blackburn Hill.

BODY LACERATED BUT MAY RECOVER

Note In Pocket Asks That Brother In Nebraska Be Notified.

In an attempt to commit suicide Monday night by leaping in front of an automobile belonging to W. S. Arbaugh, Harold Higgins, 40, of Hartington, Neb., is in a serious condition in the Central Clinic hospital after his unsuccessful jump.

About 6:30 p. m. Monday Mr. Arbaugh and his driver, Walter Scott, were going west to answer a call from Damascus. As the coupe in which they were riding neared the top of the Blackburn hill Scott noticed a man walking slowly along the right side of the road.

The man turned around and Scott, who was driving very slowly, sounded his horn. Higgins stopped, looked at the oncoming car, and then as it came within a few feet of him lowered his head and crouched, making a leap directly in front of the wheels.

Scott immediately stopped the car but the front wheels had passed over Higgin's chest and he was unconscious. Occupants of two machines back of the Arbaugh car who saw the man jump hurried to the scene and helped put the apparently lifeless body of Higgins in the Arbaugh car and brought him to the hospital.

Leaves Note In Pocket

In Higgins pocket was found a card with this inscription "In case of death or accident please notify my brother. J. F. Higgins, Hartington, Neb."

The card was considered evidence that Higgins had attempted to end his life under the wheels of an automobile and by chance chose the Arbaugh car. Hospital physicians sent a wire to the address given on the card but as yet no answer has come.

When Higgins regained consciousness he was questioned but would not divulge the reason for his attempt at suicide.

Physicians took an X-ray of Higgins' chest but so far, the extent of his internal injuries cannot be ascertained. His body is covered with lacerations and his face is cut.

Until the answer to the telegram from Higgins' brother is received it is doubtful if much about his family and history can be learned. What Higgins was doing in this part of the country and walking along the road in that manner is a mystery.

Arbaugh and Scott have been absolved by witnesses from any blame in the accident.

According to the history of the case Cope has sold the coal under his farm to the defendant reserving four acres on which the farm buildings stood. The plaintiff found later, he alleged, that the defendant had not only taken all the available coal under the farm for which he had contracted, but in addition had removed that from under the four acres which were reserved in the contract.

SALEM BOY WILL STUDY IN UNIVERSITY OF LONDON

William Blackburn, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Blackburn of Newgarden rd. left Monday night for Washington and will visit his sister near Philadelphia and friends in Newburgh, N. Y., before sailing from New York Sept. 18 on the Mauretania for London.

Mr. Blackburn, who received his masters's degree at Ohio State university this year, will study in the great University of London, where he hopes to win the degree of doctor of philosophy. He will visit several other British universities, expecting to spend a year in the British Isles.

While there he will take side trips to the continent of Europe and at the conclusion of his college course he purposes to take a trip around the world. His tour will take him to Egypt, the Holy land, South Africa, India, Australia and New Zealand, where he has friends, China and the Philippines. He will be away from this country about two years.

Blackburn has been studying philosophy with a view to teaching. He believes that a teacher should know all points of view and that the only way to get that knowledge is to rub elbows with the other fellow, to find out how other people are living and thinking, and with that thought in mind he is completing his education in a foreign university and then expects to add to his experiences by visiting other nations of the world.

Early in the summer Blackburn made study of the state institutions and those conducted by fraternal organizations.

Crime In The United States

AGAIN a committee of the American Bar association makes a report telling the story of the prevalence of crime in America. It is a familiar tale. Murder in this land of freedom for the gunman runs into thousands of cases a year. Other crimes of violence abound. There is a lamentable failure to bring offenders to punishment. Forty states of the Union have laws inflicting the death penalty for first degree murder, but they would seem to be fast becoming dead letters. With murderers averaging more than 8500 a year, a large proportion of them doubtless murders premeditated, there were only 92 legal executions in 1919.

And conditions are growing worse instead of better, if the committee's conclusions from such information as it can obtain are correct. From figures supplied by police and court clerks in the principal city of each of the 48 states it appears that from 1910 to 1922 crime has increased 16 per cent. In the same period it is estimated there has been an increase of 14 per cent in population. But may there not be here reason to believe that the population of the communities from which the reports were received was increasing faster than the general rate of growth? If that were so, the showing would not be so depressing as the mere figures would indicate, although, at best, it is gloomy enough.

When it comes to question of the remedy, the committee, as other investigators have done, calls attention to the certainty and the celerity of justice in other countries, particularly England and France. As to how that condition is to be attained on this side of the water, the committee well says that "the first great work to be accomplished in bringing about a better enforcement of law must be the awakening of the public to a clear sense of their responsibility for it." After all it comes back to the fact that in the long run, a community will get about the kind of law enforcement that it demands. If public sentiment will not tolerate delay in the administration of justice, delay will cease. If abuse of the jury system are followed by general insistence upon reform, that will come to pass. If, in short, there is public insistence on prompt and sure punishment of crime, that will become the rule rather than the exception. And with it should come a reign of law and order in place of the present disgraceful state of affairs, it being understood, of course, that this swift and sure administration of the law will be conducted with recognition of modern methods of dealing with delinquents, and especially in the treatment of those who must be shut away from their fellows.

Entering High School

MANY young men and young women (they aren't boys and girls after they get out of the grades) entered high school this year, and if they were the right kind of young people they had the right kind of a thrill from this experience.

Entering high school is a epochal event in the life of anyone who is blessed with the opportunity. Most students never get beyond the graduation period in the high schools. After that they either go to work or loaf or do a little of each.

A great many young people who enter high school never graduate, and that is a very sad mistake for them to make, and a still graver mistake on the part of the parents, providing the latter deliberately give their consent to a child leaving high school without graduating, when it is not necessary.

The first day in high school marks the beginning of an important event in the life of the young man or young woman who enjoys the privilege of acquiring this important education.

There will come a time in the history of this country (and it is approaching rapidly) when a young person without a high school diploma is going to find things pretty hard in this life. For education is the stepping stone to success and independence and without it all is lavish labor and inteminable discouragement. Those who entered upon high school life Monday are to be congratulated. They are marching over a royal road and paving their own life's highway so that progress will be smooth and sure.

That Body of Yours

OUR FUTURE VACATION

One of our most outstanding health officers has advocated a month's holidays for everybody.

We are all inclined to agree with him. The average vacation is two weeks and if you were to have an extra week or two it would do you about three times as much good.

And yet I often think we spend too much time and thought on just what we will do on our vacation and about the ease that will be ours some day.

Some people have the idea that they will work hard while they are young or middeld aged so that they will have an "easy" time when they grow older. They will not take time off for a vacation.

What happens? Well the chances are that they will not live to grow old because they have given their bodies and minds no vacation. They have worn them out with work.

Perhaps by some chance they do attain a somewhat advanced age, and are able to lay down the burdens of toil.

Well, the old saying was never truer: "You rust out quicker than you wear out."

These people have no employment of mind or body. And remember that the mind must have employment as well as the body, or we decay rapidly. And so as they settle into their life of ease with no thought except eating and sleeping, trouble starts.

It may be indigestion from an indulgence in rich foods, with no exercise to burn them up.

Perhaps it is a very stagnation of mind that is the couse of their undoing.

And so to come back to vacation.

The sane thing for every man and woman is to try to maintain health of body and mind, by the annual vacation.

Perhaps the daily vacation will come in some day.

And what is that? Simply that every day you take some physical and mental exercise, that will be different from your daily work.

It will keep you young.

Concerning Inks.

Inks are said to play an important part in the detection of forgery, especially when question arises as to the particular time a document was penned or signed.

It is claimed that blue-black inks may be recognized as fresh up to the sixth day, and that, in after years, their age may be determined when the blue provisional pigment has faded and left only the black.

The blue coloring, it seems, as time elapses is scarcely acted upon by reagents, but for a year or two it will at once diffuse if treated with a 50 per cent solution of acetic acid, whereas when it is five or six years old diffusion, if it occurs at all, is extremely slow and limited in extent.

It is averred that a still more useful re-agent is a saturated solution of oxalic acid that causes the pigment of relatively fresh writing to give an immediate smudge, but has very little, if any, effect upon writing six or eight years old.

Advice For Mothers

Read What This Mother Says

Conneaut, Ohio.—"Always during expectancy my back would be so stiff that I could scarcely move without help. I tried various medicines, but not until I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription did I get relief. I consider 'Favorite Prescription' a perfect tonic for the expectant mother, for it not only strengthened me and relieved me of all pain and lameness but I had comparatively no suffering, and my babies were hardy and strong—absolutely perfect—mentally and physically, which I considered due to the fact that the 'Favorite Prescription,' which I took as a tonic, contained no harmful ingredient."—Mrs. Frank Luce, 237 Harbor St.

RADICAL DANGER IS EVER PRESENT

AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION IS TO ASK ITS MEMBERS TO MEET THE CHALLENGE.

RED ACTIVITIES INCREASING

Knowledge of the Conditions Justifies the Repeated Warnings of the So-Called Alarmists — Many "Peace Apostles" Fooling the People.

Washington.—The American Bar association is to hold its annual meeting in Minneapolis August 28 to 31. A recommendation will be presented to the association that its members unite in an effort to meet the challenge of radical propaganda in this country.

Washington is interested in this proposal to secure the support of the American Bar association and the help of its members to check Red activities in the United States. Washington is interested, not only for the sake of the safety of the country, but because this contemplated action by a representative body of nonofficial Americans may do something to induce the average American citizen to believe that writers and others who have called attention to the Red activities are not mere alarmists.

If it is permitted it might be said that the writer of this has been accused time and again of being one of the chiefs of these "alarmists!" The truth is, if it may be put modestly, he has known what he has been writing about. He has watched the activities in this town of the members of seemingly innocuous organizations which spread dangerous propaganda under the camouflage of peace and disarmament efforts or of something else which sounds right and looks right, but which under the surface is all wrong. The effort in a large part, instead of having to do with peace or with beatitudes of any kind, has to do with the undermining of the liberties of the American people.

Vicious Aims Camouflaged.

Members of the American Legion, who are more deeply concerned than most other people, perhaps, lest war should come again, know that many of the so-called peace societies and "no more war" societies are by their efforts bringing this country into a condition where domestic war and perhaps domestic destruction will result.

Officials in Washington, yes, and newspaper men, know that the man or woman who "looks peace" and who speaks peace is not always a true apostle of peace. This city is full of placid looking persons whose self-expressed high endeavor it is to bring peace into the world for all time, and yet it is they, as the [illegible] in the case know, who are the ones most likely to bring war, strife, riots, arson and some other things which are not altogether pleasant for good Americans to contemplate.

The report of the committee on American citizenship of the American Bar association refers to un-American propaganda, attacks on the Constitution, prejudice against courts in every community and the gross indifference of the people to the duties of citizenship. Then it goes on to say:

"Dangerous elements are actually moving toward a revolution in America, both openly and secretly. During the past year conditions have not abated but, if anything, have grown more dangerous and threatening."

The Department of Justice of the United States government knows all these things, but it cannot speak until it is ready to act. It does act occasionally, but only when it has positive proof of a violation of the law which goes beyond a subtle suggestion that the United States should be blown up and a communistic government established in its former place.

Under Cover of a Free Press.

There are hundreds of newspapers and periodicals in the United States that are recognized in Washington as being dangerous to the well-being of the country. Free speech and a free press is an American cry that Americans believe in. Therefore it is the hardest thing in the world to get at the writers and the printers of things seditious, things intended to overthrow our institutions, because they keep within the law so far as outward appearances are concerned, but word their material in such a way that the inferences which they wish to be drawn can be so drawn.

The spirit of the stuff is deadly, but the letter of it is such that these men and women are allowed to go on writing undisturbed of the law.

There are loose in the United States, writing, preaching and talking men who during the war were active in their efforts to prevent the United States from winning a victory. Today in the United States there are men preaching the gospel of Christ, who served terms in prison for trying to undo their country in time of war. How many people who listen to these supposed followers of the Master know anything about the records of those who are making the appeals? On the surface of things these men are talking gospel blessings. It is difficult to tell just now what is under the surface, but during the war they talked likewise, but quickly the government learned what was underneath and brought the offenders to justice. Now they are out and are at their old work. Is it not something to think over?

American Flour Regains Hold.

American flour is regaining something of its prewar hold in the markets of Portuguese East Africa and, with direct steamer service now introduced, this tendency to return to the American product may be further accelerated. Before the war it was the general practice to mix the flour used for breadmaking, three-fifths American hard wheat flour and two-fifths Australian soft wheat flour, but with the transportation difficulties and governmental regulation of the war, American goods were practically eliminated from the imports, says Consul Cecil M. P. Cross, Lourence Marques.

GEYSER DISLIKES SOAPSUDS

Ikey Gave a Dose to the Minute Man in Yellowstone, With Astonishing Results.

The Minute Man, a geyser in Yellowstone park, doesn't like soapsuds. Ikey Einstein may have suspected as much, but, if he did, he wasn't sure, and he wanted to find out. So Ikey, says Mr. Lewis R. Freeman, cooked up a piece of laundry soap in a five-gallon oil can and poured the mess into the crater. "I saw him with an oil can fussing round in the vicinity of the crater," says Mr. Freeman. "Suddenly a succession of heavy reverberations shook the ground, and at the same instant Ikey started to run. He was just in time to avoid the deluge from a great gush of water and steam that shot a hundred feet into the air, but was not quick enough to escape the mountainous discharge of soapsuds that followed.

"Within a few seconds the five gallons of soft soap had been beaten to perhaps a million times its original volume, and for a hundred yards to leeward it covered the ground in great white fluffy, iridescent heaps. Nothing was ever seen like the sputtering little Hebrew who finally pawed his way to air and sunshine from the outermost of the sparkling saponaceous hillocks. For a good half hour the Minute Man retched and coughed in desperate efforts to rid itself of the nauseous mess that Ikey had poured down its throat. Then its efforts became scattering and spasmodic and finally ceased. But for an hour longer gasps and gurgles rattled in its throat. At last even that sound ceased and deathlike silence fell upon the formation. It really seemed that the Minute Man would never spout again."—Youth's Companion.

Spoiled Boy Is Groomed To Rule Germany.

Prince Hans

General Ludendorff von Hindenburg's right-hand man in the World war, does not hope to bring ex-Kaiser Wilhelm back to Germany, but he does believe the Monarchists will re-establish a monarchy in Germany, and he is grooming the eldest son of Princess Hermine, the ex-Kaiser's second wife, for the job. He is Prince Hans George Heinrich Ludwig Friedrich Hermann Ferdinand con Schoenaich-Carolath, 16 years old, overgrown and anemic. He lives with a court, in his Castle Antiz, in Upper Silesia. He is inordinately fond of candy and eats enormous quantities, despite the orders of his doctors. Hermine is set on having her son made Kaiser and already forces his attendants to address him as "Your Majesty."

Head dress of court and society women of Queen Elizabeth's time, was not disturbed, when once arranged, for a month, as a general thing.

Joe Miller was never known to utter a jest and his demeanor was so grave that friends, in jest, ascribed every new joke to him.

BENNIE'S SOCKS

By AGNES GRAHAM BROGAN

(©, 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

SHE sat high in the niche of the old elm tree where Bennie had built a seat for her, and industriously mended Bennie's socks. She was pretty enough to be quite in tune with the June morning, and the young man seated on the grass below gazed up at her adoringly.

"Bennie's a nice kid," the young man forlornly remarked, "and I realize your attachment for him; but why it should be necessary to devote your life solely to his care is more than I can understand. Some day he will grow up and not need you."

"My little brother," the girl calmly replied; "needs me now. He was left to my care, and I shall be faithful to the trust."

Speculatively she examined her work, her head sidewise, like that of the robin on a branch above.

"And it's not," she added "as though I loved anyone else."

"You never will," the man hotly exclaimed, "with that boy filling your every thought."

He went, sulkily, down the garden path. Pattie's eyes followed him, mischievously. If Billy Wentworth could have seen her then, his disconsolate heart might have taken courage. For also Pattie sighed. And Billy believed that Bennie's presence in his sister's life left no reason for sighing.

"No use!" Billy told himself lugubriously. "If it isn't Bennie's socks, it's Bennie's cookies, or Bennie's something else, that takes her time. And I might as well be in—!" Billy paused here, cut short in meditation by the sight of the disapproved youngster himself. Bennie was fishing on the rustic bridge, over Claretown stream.

"Get out!" that paragon child remarked. "I nearly had a bite." Billy regarded him viciously.

"I wish," he muttered," you'd have several kinds of bites; I wish—" Billy was really not responsible.

Bennie turned to look at his sister's lover in new interest.

"Why," Bennie suggested, "don't you make her love you anyway?"

Billy stared. "Make her?" he repeated. Bennie reached for a worn book behind him. Thoughtfully, he thumbed its pages.

"Here it is," he remarked presently; "this girl was all wrapped up in another fellow, you know, the way Pat is wrapped up in me, only, this other fellow was a—rival. But the rival jumped into the lake one day, and rescued this other guy that couldn't swim and didn't amount to anything anyway—an' when Clarice saw how brave an' noble an' everything the rival was—why, she fell in love with him right away, and married him, an' the other guy had to go back to where he belonged."

Billy grinned.

"So, you would advise me to play the hero," he said, "and—you'd not mind if your sister did come to care for me?"

Bennie laid the book aside. Into his brown boyish eyes came a reflection of the light that had shown in Pattie's blue ones a short time ago.

"I want my sister," the boy said, "to be happy. Mebbe two of us could make her happier than one."

Impulsively, Billy put out his hand. Bennie's small freckled one slipped within it; it was a man's hand clasp that these two gave each other. Singing, down the road toward them, came Pattie. Cupping her hands, she called to her brother.

"Lunch time," called Pattie—"lunch time."

Then, something happened! With a gasp of dismay Billy leaned forward over the bridge. Bennie had fallen into the water. He heard Pattie's scream, as he tore off his coat and jumped after. At this point the water was dangerously deep. He caught the white blouse and shouted words of assurance to the struggling boy. Then, safely and easily, Billy brought his rescued friend in.

Pattie covered the child's wet face with kisses. Bennie sitting upon shore, calmly wrung the water from his baggy trousers.

"Oh, cut it," he remarked cheerfully. Her face alight with some soft inner glow, Pattie turned to Billy.

"You did it!" she whispered, "Oh, it was wonderful to see you risk your own life, so bravely—so nobly. And for Bennie; Bennie, who, though innocently, has kept me from you—"

Billy came close. Billy took the trembling, proffered hands in his, "There would have to be love, Pattie," he said, "love for me—as well as for Bennie. Do you think—could you give it—some day—not now, of course—"

Billy in his humbleness was floundering.

Bennie stood up and reached for his fishing tackle.

"Why not take it now, when the taking's good?" he remarked inelegantly.

It was just as the three were sitting down to a late luncheon that Bennie leaned to whisper to his newly promised brother.

"It's the first time she didn't worry for fear I hadn't got into dry clothes, or taken a headache or something. You've got her all right." He glanced furtively toward the kitchen. "And say, didn't I slip off that bridge easy?—if she only knew, I can swim like a fish—learned last summer down at the lake with the Bobbins kids. But keep it dark," warned Bennie.

Again, as man to man, two hands met and clasped beneath the table—and the big hand held the little one tenderly.

The Beauty of Lamp Light

WHEN you stroll along the street at night, don't you love to see the lamps gleaming in the windows? How colorful the homes appear.. How hospitable and inviting!

The lamps in your home give pleasure to others just as they make the rooms cheerful and home-like for you.. Take off all the lamp shades some time, as an experiment, and see how glare-y the effect.

If your furniture is out of date but well-beloved, cover it over with cretonne slips. Put the simplest of drapes at the window—and get some new lamps. The soft light mellows the whole effect and shortcomings in furniture are overlooked.

This little service in home decoration costs you nothing. You'd have to have the light anyway.

Second Professional Eleven Is Launched

Safety First Club Places Experienced Team In The Field Here.

Another, and more experienced professional football team, has entered the local gridiron stage. Tuesday it was announced by Coach Joe Kelly that Safety First team would again appear as the heavy and older professional team to represent the city.

In former years there were always two teams, one heavier, and composed of more seasoned and experienced players, and again this year such will be the case. The Safety First club has gathered together many of the players who have been known in local sport history for many years. And in addition several players of greater repute have been added to the roster.

In order to have a team in the city that should stack up against the heavy teams of the national association of football teams the Safety First club decided to put an eleven on the field that would serve to get attractions here such as the Youngstown Patricians, Akron Mutes, Massillon Blues, and other teams which a lighter team could not play.

The team is tentatively composed of the following players:

Frank Hannay, Salem High, tackle; Bus Hannay, Salem High, guard; Ike Walker, Salem High and Salem professionals, end; Joe Kelly, Kenyon captain, half; Bob Wilson Ohio State, center; "Hink" Spencer, Kenyon, quarter; Twing Seeds, Ohio State, half; Kyle, Salem High, end; Ike Koenreich, Salem High, end.

Pat Bolen, Seventh A. E. F. division, quarter; Shupp, Miami and Dayton Triangles Tackles; Munsell, Salem Professionals, half; King, Canton Bulldogs, fullback; McKeown, Salem High, quarter; Stock, Kenyon, half; Red Blair, Ohio State, half and full; Peters, army, guard.

Sign "Red" Blair

Red Blair of Ohio State, all-western halfback for two years, and now coach at Akron Central High, has promised the team that he will appear here. Blair was a sensation at State.

Stock of Kenyon was on the college varsity three years. King of the Canton Bulldogs needs no introduction as a line ripper. Shupp played on the Dayton team last year and moved to this part of the state on account of business.

The rest of the team are well known local players who made names for themselves at college and on the Salem High team.

The following teams have been scheduled to appear during the season: Youngstown Patricians, Alliance Goat Hills, both here and at Alliance, Washingtonville, Lisbon, Massillon Blues, and the East Liverpool Grays. Dates and other teams will be announced soon.

This aggregation of players, all seasoned and developed, ought to be one of the best in this part of the state. All big, rangy men, with one or two exceptions, the men will help put Salem again on the football map.

A practice call has been issued for 7.30 p. m. Thursday at the Community House. From then on the team will probably hold regular practice at Reilly field.

League Leaders Now Are Almost Certain To Win

The task of the Giants to win their third successive National League pennant does not appear very formidable today. The Giants are four and a half games in front of the Reds and five games ahead of the Pirates.

The Giants have 18 more games to play, the Reds 21, and the Pirates 22. If the Giants win 12 of their remaining games it would give them 96 victories and 58 defeats. If the Giants win two-thirds of their remaining games the Reds would have to win 19 of their remaining games and the Pirates 20 of the 22 yet to play to nose the Giants out.

To clinch the American League pennant the Yankees need but 13 more victories of the 26 games they have to play even if the Indians win all of their remaining 26 games. The Yankees today have a lead of 13½ games over the Indians.

THIRD COACH IS ADDED TO STAFF; TEAM GETS GOING

Salem High Squad Receives New Uniforms; Starts Real Work.

CAPT. CRUTCHLEY AND HOUSER OUT

New Physical Director Of Junior High Assists Football Coaches.

With a squad of about 40 players out Head Coach Richtman put the Salem High team through the first uniform practice of the season Monday night at Reilly field. Assistant Coach Bruce Swanson was on hand and took charge of one squad, Richtman directing the veterans and last year's subs.

The dim ray of hope that Salem High would have a fair team this year after losing most of her players has changed into a bright gleam of certainty. At least it looks that way now. And heres the reason.

Every man out is working hard. The team is in earnest, even the lightest and youngest candidates with no hopes of making the second team are hard at it. With only comparatively good material to start with, Richtman has them all stepping, at this early date, like an experienced crew.

Capt. Crutchley made his first appearance Monday. This seemed to put more pep into the practice. Houser, veteran end, was also out, and was his old self, punting long spirals and fats as ever on the flank.

At 2 p. m. Richtman gave the team a blackboard talk on fundamentals and plays and handed out needed advice to new men. Following the lecture Richtman took his huskies to the field distributed uniforms, and started them at passing the ball, forming two squads.

Third Coach For Team

All the men were given coaching on handling the ball, passing and punting it and some work at ball-hawking. It is Richtman's idea to get the men so familiar with the ball at the outset that they will not make the usual early season fumbles.

George Nickel, former Milwaukee Normal school star tackle, and new physical director for the Junior High, has been added to the staff of coaches and took charge of some of the team Monday. He will be the third coach and will probably watch the line in particular.

The men out Monday night were Crutchley, Houser, Cavanaugh, Cosgrove, F. Simonds, C. Simonds, Bush, Miller, Heck, Vollmer, Bova, Duncan, [illegible] Cox, Yoder, Yaggi, Lodge, Coffee, Kelly, Forney, Lewis Krepps, Fogg, Grafton, Sidinger, Houts, Scott, Filler, Catlin, Judge, Jones, Brewer, Stallsmith, Schnorrenberg, Bristol and Negrotto.

Vollmer, last years center, will probably be shifted to the backfield and Simonds may be developed at center. Bova is being coached to punt, throw, and carry the ball and be a triple threat man. He is new but bids fair to become a future star quarterback.

Houser is so far the best distance man on punts, his kicks Monday night going for 40 to 50 yards. Vollmer Sartick, Cosgrove and Bova are also showing up well on punts.

Manager Howells put up the dummy and Tuesday the team will get some work in that department. Blocking and tackling will also be on tap Tuesday.

Well, It's "Cy"

The given name or nickname of a man in the public eye is one of the first things, curiously enough, that people like to know. So it leaked out that when he was in college S. C. Richtman, Salem High's new head coach, was called "Cy" because of the fact that his first name is Simon. That short snappy appellation fits in exactly with his likable personality.

LEGIONAIRES OPEN OHIO CONVENTION

Ten Thousand Vets March, Prominent Men Speak At Springfield.

Springfield, O., Sept. 11.—"Everything the American soldier fought for is in danger, if symptoms of mob rule, disobedience to law and unlawful outbreaks are allowed to develop," U. S. Senator Simeon D. Fess told 4,000 delegates and visitors to the Ohio American Legion convention at Memorial hall here Monday.

"Since the war ended crime has greatly increased, and mob rule has become quite common. The best method to combat these conditions is by education. The American Legion is the best agency in the country for the promulgation of sound popular opinion, based upon a healthy sentiment," Senator Fess continued.

An address of welcome by Mayor John E. Furry, Springfield, preceded speeches delivered by Senator Fess, United States Senator Frank B. Willis, General J Warren Keifer, Springfield, representing the G. A. R., and General Roy E. Layton, Wapokoneta, representing the United Spanish-American War Veterans.

Ten thousand veterans participated in the American Legion parade Monday afternoon.

Election of officers today is expected to be marked by several spirited contests, General Chauncey Baker, Columbus; Daniel Eifert, Toledo; Walter B. Wanamaker, Akron and Gus Ohlinger, Toledo, are mentioned for state commander.

Indications from district caucuses were that Marion, Canton, Akron, East Liverpool and Middletown delegations would ask for the 1924 state convention.

Ralph Heatherington, Bellaire, was elected grand chef degare of La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, over Dr. C. P. Grover, Dayton, and State Representative Paul M. Herbert, Columbus, Sunday. Other officers chosen:

Dr. Grover, Dayton, chief de train; Robert C. Weber, Dayton, commissare intendent; Frank J. Merrick, Cleveland, Grand correspondent; Thomas Tellentire, Cincinnati, guard de laperte and C. W. Rhoades, Columbus, grand conducteur.

GARFIELD

State Troops Await Order To Halt Klan Parade In Oklahoma

Oklahoma City, Sept. 11. — State troops were held in readiness today for quick movement to Duncan, Stevents county, to prevent the Ku Klux Klan parade scheduled there Tuesday night, it was announced at Gov. walton's office.

The parade at Duncan and the barbecue Thursday at Checotah were scheduled in open defiance of the governors proclamation banning that gathering for the next three years, the balance of his term.

"Only one power in the world can make the Ku Klux Klan unmask and that is the imperial Wizard," declared Grand Dragon Jewett here today, after being informed that the governor demanded that the Klan unmask.

MRS. G. W. HALL SICK FOR YEARS

Wants Women to Know How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lima, Ohio.—"Indeed, your medicine is all you say it is! I had very severe troubles such as women often have, and could do no heavy work. I was sick for several years, and from reading your ads. I finally decided to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now doing my own washing, which I haven't done for several years, and can walk long distances without those dragging pains and weak feelings. The Vegetable Compound is fine, and I never forget to say a good word for it to other women when they say they need something."—Mrs. G. W. HALL, 539 Hazel Avenue, Lima, Ohio.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Hall's experience is but one of many.

"NO MORE ABUSE OF PRESIDENTS"

THAT IS THE COUNTRY'S RIGHTEOUS RESOLVE, BUT THE MOOD WILL NOT BE LASTING.

HUMAN NATURE NOT CHANGED

Coolidge Undoubtedly Will Come In for Harsh Criticism, Whatever He May Do—Arthur the Only One Who Nearly Escaped It.

By EDWARD B. CLARK

Washington. — Washington — and when one writes the name of the city he includes all the inhabitants thereof, politicians, nonpoliticians, office holders and all others—seemingly is resolved that in the future it will not harshly criticize the President of the United States without definite knowledge that he has done something or intends to do something which should be criticized.

Now when one writes Washington in this sense, he might just as well have written the United States, for from every quarter of the country have come newspapers which editorially declare that President Harding's death was hastened by harsh words from those who did not understand his motives. Man always is going to be good, but he seldom entirely accomplishes his purpose. In a month, if the records of the past go for anything, good resolutions will be forgotten and if a rumor shall come, no matter how slim it may be, that President Coolidge intends to do something which a part of his fellow countrymen do not approve, the floodgates of fault finding and, mayhap, of abuse, will swing open and the torrent will come down upon the offender who probably had no intention of offending.

Politics is politics and party feeling is party feeling, and human nature is human nature. They must be reformed, regenerated in fact, before any President of the United States, Democrat or Republican, can hope to escape that abuse which more than occasionally amounts to vilification.

Trouble in Store for Coolidge.

As has been said many times within the last few weeks, President Coolidge intends to carry out the Harding policies. If he shall carry them out in the spirit in which his predecessor intended to carry them out, he probably will be abused by those who abused the dead President; and if he does not carry them out strictly in letter, he will be abused by those quick to declare him a pledge breaker.

Every president who succeeded to office on the death of his predecessor has had his troubles when it came to the matter of satisfying men who believed thoroughly in the policies of the man who had gone. During his first term as president. Theodore Roosevelt hewed close to the McKinley policy lines, but he did not altogether escape calumny. When he was chosen by the people as president and entered on a term "on his own," he met with more criticism, perhaps, than most other presidents, but it was not because of failure to carry out his predecessor's policies. He had attended to that in his first term.

There was one president years ago who escaped harshness of criticism and yet he was the one who everybody believed at the time was most likely to get it. Chester A. Arthur as vice president was at outs personally and factionally with his chief, President James A. Garfield. Then came Garfield's assassination. The people were bitter against Arthur because at the time Garfield was killed Arthur was said to be engaged in an attempt to circumvent some of his policies.

How Arthur Avoided Abuse.

Chester A. Arthur came into office knowing what the conditions were and he went through his term without exciting the public feeling against him in any way. He refused in almost every instance to interfere with the appointments to office made by his predecessor and he refrained from making appointments and from engaging in policies of which the Garfield partisans could not approve.

Roscoe Conkling, who had a bitter quarrel with Garfield and who had resigned from the United States senate in a fit of pique, was the closest political friend of Chester A. Arthur. Everybody expected Arthur to heed the requests of Conkling in the matter of appointments to office; but so far as could be determined Arthur paid no heed to Conkling except in one case and in this one Conkling, it is said, insisted, saying he would ask nothing further. Arthur removed one of the most capable postmasters in the state of New York, a postmaster of a large city, at Conkling's request. The senate refused to confirm the man whom the president named to succeed the removed postmaster, but later he was given a recess appointment and a long time afterward was confirmed.

This is supposed to be the only case in which President Arthur ran counter to the general Garfield policies, either in appointments to office or in anything else. Roscoe Conkling had a personal grievance, it is said, against the postmaster who was removed, and allowed his personal feeling to rule in the matter, but it ruled in nothing else.

Harshness of criticism of the president seems for the present to have passed from the field of the country's activities. It will come back year by year.

BURKE IN CONTEST FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Columbus, Sept. 11.—Formal announcement by State Senator J. F. Burke, Elyria, of his candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination next year was received here today.

Senator Burke, however, registered his willingness to forego his candidacy for the governorship and to support some other candidate, "progressive in his beliefs, with a record consistent with those beliefs and willing to make pronouncement at once unequivocally and correct on the great humanitarian and economic issues before the country," if such a person should announce his intention of running for the Republican nomination for governor.

WINONA

His Luck Was In.

Signor Marconi tells in London Tit-Bits an amusing story concerning an applicant for a job at an electric power station whose knowledge was small, to put it mildly.

The busy foreman of works, wishing to learn what were his qualifications for the post, led off by asking him what was ordinarily used as a conductor of electricity.

Applicant (all at sea)—Why—er—

Foreman—Wire. Correct! Now tell me what is the unit of electric power.

Applicant—The what, sir?

Foreman—Exactly, the watt. Very good; that will do. You may sign on for the job.
